Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I understand that you have been lied to, because the claim that USTelecom presented to you is FALSE. USTelecom told you that there are no carriers who use unbundled copper and inter-city fiber transport elements to compete in the residential marketplace and that residential consumers will not be "materially affected" by the proposed changes to components of the 1996 Telecommunications Act. What you have been told appears to be false.

I am a Sonic residential DSL internet subscriber and would be "materially affected". Is that clear enough? You could find the evidence yourselves.

Do you understand the fundamental benefit of healthy competition between all businesses? Yes, of course you do. Is it your goal to serve the American public? I'm not sure. If no, then stop wasting your time by reading this letter. If yes, then heed what I'm saying.

Do you understand that internet access is now fundamental to life in America? Again, yes, of course you do. Since internet access is fundamental, do you believe that healthy competition to yield an abundance of brand choices of high quality products at the most affordable prices is fundamental to the quality of life in America? You probably are adept at arithmetic and, therefore, would probably also answer "yes" to this question.

Again, if your goal isn't to serve the American public, then believe USTelecom, do what they want you to do, and don't promote and preserve healthy competition between all internet service providers. If your goal is, indeed, to serve the American public, then don't dismantle key components of the 1996 Telecommunications Act. Thank you.
